Student council to sponsor free Christmas dance Dec. 8

The student council met Monday, Nov. 12, to discuss the away basketball trip to Notre Dame, Des. 1, and the second annual council-sponsored Christmas dance, Dec. 8.

Student council secretary John Cates announced that there would be only 100 tickets available to St. Joseph's students for the Notre Dame game and that 25 tickets would be allotted to each class. Everyone traveling to South Bend for the game will have to go on student buses. The hall representatives will meet to discuss other ways of procuring more tickets for the game.

Social committee chairman Jim Tuerff announced that the next mixer on campus is scheduled for Jan. 12.

Admission to the Christmas dance, scheduled for Dec. 8 and sponsored by the student council, will be free. A $2.00 deposit will be required of all those students planning to attend. It will be returned at the door. The number of students allowed to attend will be limited to 175.

John O'Riordan, chairman of the publicity committee, announced that Bill MacDonald and Bernie Saunders have been appointed members of his committee. He also drew attention to the performance of the glee club scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. The club will present a light concert of Negro spirituals and excerpts from Broadway musicals.

Scholastic committee chairman Don Hoffman reported that a formal statement on cheating would be issued by the academic dean. Hoffman stressed the importance of not cheating, because cheating is detrimental to the standing of the college as an academic institution. There will be a coffee hour scheduled to discuss the problem.

Prefects were advised to remove the clips and bolts from every gun on their respective floors. Students must register their guns with the dean of men.

Author to speak on foreign policy

By FRANK CREEL

Dr. Selig Adler, author of The Isolationist Impluse, will lecture here on Tuesday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m. His topic will be "American Foreign Policy."

Dr. Adler graduated summa cum laude from the University of Buffalo's College of Arts and Sciences in 1931, and has been professor of history there since 1941. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Illinois.

The Isolationist Impluse, on sale at the college bookstore, is an analysis of the American preference, as enunciated by George Washington and shattered by Pearl Harbor, to remain aloof from foreign political entanglements, and it is presumably from the isolationist angle that Dr. Adler will lecture on our foreign policy.

SJ students attend press congress at Marquette university

The National Catholic Educational Press Congress convened in Milwaukee, Wis., on Nov. 9, 10, and 11. The conference was sponsored by the Catholic School Press association and the college of Journalism of Marquette university. Those attending from St. Joseph's were Mr. Edward Menkaush, faculty advisor to student publications, Bill Vaught, editor of Phase, and Mick Lewis, associate editor of Stuff.

The conference began with Holy Mass at noon, Friday, Nov. 9.

Activities were divided into three general areas. First there were general sessions which the entire delegations from each school attended. These sessions were ordinarily addresses by such persons as Fr. William F. Kelly, S.J., president of Marquette university, and James O'Gara, managing editor of Commonweal.

The second area, consisted of sectional meetings which were talks by journalists on specific subjects such as yearbook typography and design, feature writing, and campus reporting. The third general area included personal consultation with experts in various fields of journalism. Individual delegations were allowed to make arrangements for such consultation.

Approximately 900 students attended the congress in delegations from schools across the nation. All the sessions were held in either the halls of Marquette university or in Milwaukee auditorium.

SJ fans would do well to carry spirit into basketball season

Football season has passed. The Pumas have finished with a commendable 4-4-1 overall record. The record of their fans is equally commendable. It is a record of loud, loyal, unflinching support. It is a record of spirit upon which cold and wet days had little effect. It is a record of student effort at which St. Joseph's college should long be proud, for in that effort its students have shown themselves determined and unselfish.

To the student council goes most of the credit for this record. The council, through its staging of rallies, its decorating and its organizing, has been chiefly responsible for raising and maintaining spirit throughout the football season. In this work the council has once again shown the value of concerted effort.

Now basketball season is upon us. Traditionally, spirit has been high for St. Joe basketball contests and has been favorably commented upon by radio stations which carry the games of several Puma opponents. The council, recognizing this, has stated that it will continue its efforts in directing and maintaining student spirit, but not at the fevered

Council Critique Writer commends council meeting

By DAVE CUNNINGHAM

Last Monday night we saw something refreshingly new on campus—a student council meeting that came off without a hitch. The news was almost entirely good and there was none of the typically lengthy and useless debating that has become a part of our Monday night assemblages.

There was a closed meeting of the council prior to the Rec hall meeting, and I presume that any haggling to be done was gotten out of the way there, thus leaving the later meeting free. This is, I think, a welcome step.

Dave Eckerle reported that the sophomores actually had shown a profit on the Towers Dance last weekend. This is highly unusual to say the least; I have never heard of it happening here before, and I know it hasn't in my four years at St. Joe's. Congratulations are in order for all those who worked on the dance.

Frosting on this already attractive cake came in the form of a congratulatory note from Fr. Girt concerning the social conduct at the dance. Not much can be added to that.

The Notre Dame trip was the last item on the agenda, and I must admit that a good solution to the ticket scarcity problem was found by the council. It is not our fault that only 100 tickets were allotted to us; in the face of this existing condition they decided to distribute the tickets evenly among the four classes and to sell a bus tickets with each game ticket. A good solution to a bad situation.

level at which it operated during football season. This is understandable, since such activity would be almost impossible to maintain in the face of the hectic, two-game-per-week basketball schedule.

Still, the student body is to be congratulated for its spirit during the football season and they would do well to carry that spirit over into basketball season, as both coaches and players are agreed that such spirit is a significant contribution to team effort.

Dear Cynthia

Dear Cynthia,

I'm a freshman and I have a problem that has to be solved or I'll flunk out of school.

The boys who live with me on third floor Drexel are extremely loud and boisterous. I try to study but someone is always throwing water balloons and other things into my room. My prefects are of no help as they also indulge in these childish antics. And they give me pink slips for yelling about it.

I came to St. Joe for an education and I wish I could get one. But what can I do when no one will shut up long enough for me to study?

Taciturn

Dear Taciturn,

The prefects on Drexel third will love you for this letter. I will answer your question with another. Ever hear of locks on doors, ear plugs or the peaceful quite of the library?

Sincerely,
Cynthia

Dear Cynthia,

This weekend (Oct. 29) I gained the long-coveted title of "Mixer King" by my fabulous performance in true New Jersey style at the Junior Class party at Mundelein and the mixer at St. Marys-of-the-Woods. I have worked hard and sought this title for a long time and now it's mine. My problem is how to retain it. Could you help me with such things as a reliable twisting instructor (my first attempt was an unsuccessful Wood's event), a conversation expert, and a list of future mixers. The loss of such a distinction would be a great blow to me so I will appreciate any advice you can give me.

Yours truly,
"The Mixer King"

P.S. A bridge coach would be greatly appreciated also.

Dear Mixer King,

I do very well at all the above and Digamma Kappa Lambda and the advanced physics class will tour the Argonne National Laboratories, near Chicago, Sat., Nov. 17. Sixty-six members and six faculty members are traveling in two school buses leaving from the bookstore at 6:30 a.m. Research in biology, chemistry and physics is conducted at these laboratories, some of which are guarded by security police.

At the Nov. 8 meeting new members received their pins and plans for a Christmas party on Dec. 6 were discussed.

Towers dance 'Showboat' made twist-free cruise

By BILL McDONALD

Unfortunately, the long-awaited Towers Dance weekend did not commence on the most desirable note, as the Puma eleven dropped its last game of the season, 16-0. Indiana State emerged triumphant in a relatively late bid for the conference championship. However, any despondence presenting itself in the immediate post-game period was not in evidence later on in the evening, as Puma fans drowned away their troubles to the musical strains of Eldon Baron and his orchestra and the affectionate sighs and coos of their dates.

The theme for the evening was Showboat, and facets of this topical idea were to be observed in every square inch of Raleigh hall's interior visible to the naked eye. Waiters rather gaudily attired amicably scurried to and fro, taking ample notice of the various sundry charms manifested by the more cherished of the sexes.

A rather interesting note to be observed was that there were but two "Twist" pieces played during the entire evening. It seems that this almost legendary choreographic technique has lost its popularity on campus since it was legalized by Fr. Girt earlier in the academic year.

At any rate, all parties concerned had nothing but the highest tribute to render the sophomore class officers and their auxiliary committees of decorators, carpenters, and coordinators. As this reporter hopped from table to table, he observed that a number of those present seemed more than willing to expound on the merits of either the dance or their dates. However, no one had seen fit to record any of the proceedings with words, so I willingly assumed the task—"My duty as I saw it."

"Hey-What're ya doin with that notebook?"—Mike Torgeson, sophomore.

"Eckerle's the best president ever, 'cause he's throwing the best dance I've ever been to!"—Larry Rielly, sophomore.

"I like it."—Dick Rushlow, freshman.

"The Goliards will be famous in two years"—Jim Tallon, sophomore.

"They haven't turned the clock back yet."—Lonnie Brunswick.

"Honk-honk"—Clarabelle.

"Eros uber Alles"—John Reynolds.

"I'm in love with the most beautiful girl in the world." (Name withheld upon request).

"Next year's team will be undefeated."—Larry Rielly.

Summarily, the reader may bear in mind Fr. White's appraisal of the situation—"The supply demanded obviously did not equal the demand."

Mixer visitors praise St. Joe manpower

Dear Editor,

On behalf of the "Mundle Bundles?" a big thanks for a "typical" St. Joe's weekend. (November 3-4.) All Right!!

Not only was the team at its best but also the warm hospitality shown us. We appreciate the efforts made by your student officers and faculty plus those of Mundelein's who helped to insure our good time.

To quote the "worldly philosopher:" "The Pumas were great, they are great, and they will be great!"

Pumas lose to Indiana State, 16-0

Defeat halts SJC chance to win ICC

By CHARLES J. SCHUTTROW

Indiana State's Sycamores scored 16 points in the final twenty minutes of play Saturday on wind-swept and chilly St. Joseph's field to break a scoreless tie and hand St. Joseph's their third Indiana Collegiate conference loss, 16-0.

The loss ends the Pumas' 1962 season with a 4-4-1 overall mark and a 3-3 ICC record, good for a fourth place tie with DePauw behind champion Butler (4-1-1) and Indiana State and Valparaiso (4-2).

Indiana State closes its season with a 5-3 overall mark.

The Pumas threatened to score first late in the first quarter when they drove from their 37 to the Sycamores' 16 in nine plays. The drive stalled, however, when halfback Phil Zera gained one yard, fullback Chuck Ryan gained one, Zera lost 16 and the Pumas were penalized 15 yards for clipping to set them back to the Indiana State 46.

This was the game's only serious scoring threat until late in the third quarter when Indiana State took the ball following fullback Dennis Houlihan's 26-yard punt to the St. Joe 37.

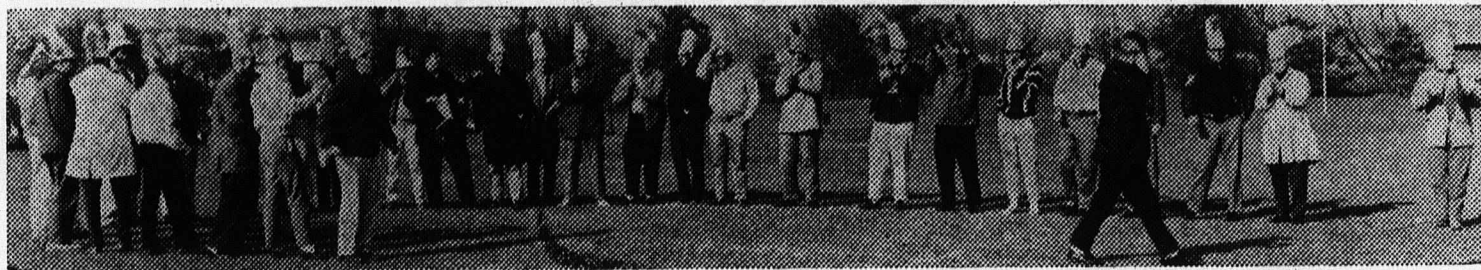

On the first play quarterback Clarence Reedy threw ten yards to end Joe Beach for a first down at the Pumas' 37.

Then Reedy rifled a 36-yard pass to halfback Moyese Williams at the St. Joe one where the Elkhart, Ind., speedster caught the ball near the east sidelines and fell over the goal. Quarterback Pat Jones' extra point kick was wide and Indiana State led, 6-0, with 4:49 to play in the quarter.

On the second play of the fourth quarter halfback Jon Pope intercepted quarterback Dave Ogren's pass at the Pumas' 47 and returned it to the 32.

On three successive carries Jon Pope gained 19 yards, gained six and lost one to set the ball on the St. Joe eight.

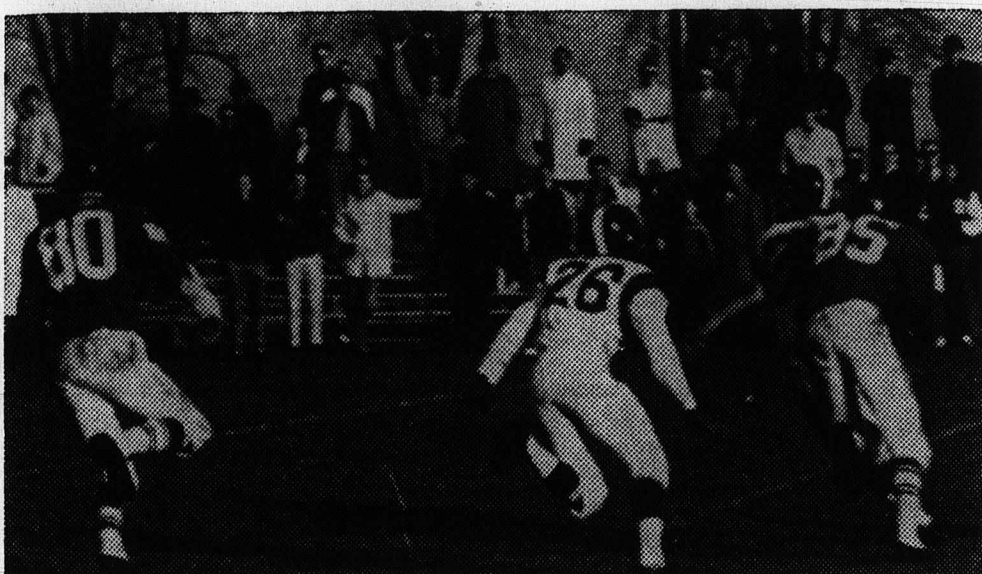

Then Jones threw a pass over the center of the Puma defense to Pope in the end zone for the Sycamores second score. Jones kicked the extra point and Indiana State led, 13-0, with just 2:06 gone in the final quarter.

The Pumas took the kickoff and drove from their 26 to the Indiana State 31 where Ogren's fourth down keeper play fell short of a first down by one yard.

Indiana State then drove 58 yards in 13 plays to the St. Joe 11 for a first down. After halfback 41 net yards in eight carries while halfback Larry Lennon ranked second with 40 yards in ten carries.

Zera named as Pumas' MVP

Ground-gaining Puma halfback Phil Zera was his teammates' choice for Most Valuable Player in a ballot held Monday afternoon.

This season the 5' 11", 190-pound Zera, who hails from Skokie, Ill., led the Puma squad with 448 yards in 116 carries. Also to his credit are two touchdowns.

Last year Zera ranked second among Puma ground gainers with 294 yards in 84 attempts, and was first in pass receiving and kick-off returns. He is a graduate of St. George high school in Evanston, Ill., where he lettered as a halfback.

The MVP selection made by the team is not necessarily the same as that of the Ohio club, whose choice is announced at the annual football banquet.

Zera was also selected by his teammates as a team captain for next year. A second captain will be chosen after the spring practice season, and a third will be selected next fall.

Varsity Views Season ends on sad note

By TOM FLETCHALL

The 1962 Pumas ended their football season on a sad note, as they dropped a 16-0 decision to Indiana State. The defeat dropped St. Joe to a fourth place tie in the ICC and evened their season's record at four wins, four losses and one tie.

Saturday's game was a dismal repeat of all of St. Joe's failures in the ICC. Against Indiana State, as well as Ball State and DePauw, the Pumas were plagued by poor passing, frequent penalties, and general inconsistency. The combination of these factors netted a point production of zero against each of the three opponents.

I suppose the lack of effective passing can be singled out as the most prominent factor in hindering the Pumas in ICC competition. Saturday's game is the most recent case in point. Against the Sycamores St. Joe picked up only ten yards through the air and in addition had four aeriels intercepted.

Even though the Pumas were disappointing at times, no one can deny that they enjoyed a fine season and were generally a real good football team. The victories over highly touted Valpo, Butler, and Wheaton speak for themselves as to the success of the recent season and the overall quality of St. Joe's football team.

Defense, rushing, and spirit were particularly impressive this year. The Pumas ranked high in both total rushing and total defense statistics in the ICC. As everyone knows spirit on the part of the team and the students was outstanding.

With the loss of only six men next year's team should be the best since the powerhouses of the middle 50's.

SJ cagers to meet ND on Dec. 1

In the opening of the 1962-63 St. Joseph's basketball season, the Pumas will meet the "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame.

Coach John Jordan hopes to improve on last years 6-17 record with the help of the best group of sophomore cagers in Notre Dame history. Three sophomores who will very probably break into the starting lineup in the front line include; Jay Miller, 6-4 forward, Ron Reed, 6-5 forward and 6-9 center Walt Sahm. All three of these boys are products of Indiana high schools.

Co-captains John Matthews and John Andreoli at the guard positions will round out the starting five. Matthews was a starting guard last season and averaged 12 points per game. He will be the Irish playmaker and lead the fast breaks. Andreoli, 6-4 and the Irish top defensive player, will hold down the other guard position. Last season Andreoli played both guard and forward while finishing third among regulars in scoring with a 13.0 average.

Coach Jordan has two other returning lettermen who saw limited action last year. Tom Finnegan, 6-2 junior guard and 6-3 senior forward Ed Malloy. Sophomores who are in contention for starting berths include; Larry Jesewitz, 6-8 center, Larry Sheffield, 6-0 guard and Dick Erlenberg, 6-4 forward.

Missed from last year's squad will be the entire front line of Armand Reo (6-6), John Dearie (6-6), and Karl Rosessler (6-7), and playmaker guard Ed Schnurr. Reo and Schnurr were last year's top scorers with 18.0 and 13.8 averages respectively.

Notre Dame's lack of experience may be costly, with five of the first ten players being sophomores, but Coach Jordan feels they will have more team speed and more strength off the boards than last year. He hopes to use the fast break as a major weapon.

The Irish opener with the Pumas will be followed by such powerhouses as Kentucky, Indiana, North Carolina and Bradley.

Puma bowlers defeat IIT for second victory

The St. Joseph's bowling team beat the keggers from Illinois Institute of Technology last Sunday to take their second consecutive win in the Midwest Intercollegiate Bowling conference. The Pumas won their first match from Loyola two weeks earlier.

In a five game series, the Pumas accumulated a total pin fall of 4367. This was a 16-pin lead over the IIT total of 4351. The St. Joe team was awarded seven points as opposed to its opponents four.

The Puma keggers dropped the first and last games of the series by scores of 879-863 and 901-844 respectively. They took the second game 861-841, the third 892-883, and the fourth 907-847. Jim Madden was high for St. Joseph's with a 923 series, while Tom Kuhar had the high game with a pin fall of 211.

The next match scheduled for the Puma bowlers is Dec. 2 against Valparaiso university.

SJ student is Cuban refugee, member of anti-Castro movement

By AUDREY URBANCZYK

A native of Havana, a member of the anti-Castro underground movement, and now a student at St. Joseph's college. These are but three significant points of interest in the life of 18-year-old Octavio Galban.

In December of 1961, Octavio and his 21-year-old brother flew to Miami with 66 pounds of luggage and the clothes on their backs.

This flight terminated for Octavio a year's activities as a member of the Movimiento Democrata Cristiano, an anti-Castro organization with a membership of several thousand. As a member of the Movimiento, Octavio acted as messenger among the various underground leaders in Havana. Detection of Octavio's affiliation with this counter-revolutionary movement would have meant certain imprisonment.

The main purpose of the Movimiento was to help American-supplied forces succeed in the Bay of Pigs invasion of 1961. Octavio's Movimiento group was to attack a secret police headquarters, release the prisoners there, and create general confusion. However, the signal from the United States announcing the time of the invasion failed to reach the Movimiento Democrata Cristiano or any of the other Cuban underground organizations. As a result, the organization was not totally prepared for the invasion.

After the unsuccessful invasion, many of the counter-revolutionaries were captured and imprisoned. Octavio's affiliation with the Movimiento remained undetected, so he arrived in America last year.

Octavio's mother, who knew nothing of his underground activities, and his two sisters are still in Cuba, and although he has not heard from them in two months, he has hopes that they will be able to come to America.

He also has two half-brothers in the United States and another brother in the United States Army. Octavio's home away from Cuba is at Mount Saviour Monastery, Elmira, New York, where he lives with his half-brother, a Benedictine monk.

Octavio speaks English well, having been educated in several Cuban-American schools. He wishes to live someday in Cuba, but not until it is free. One of the first things he did when he arrived in Miami was to sign up for any future invasion of Cuba.
